CHECKS IDENTIFIED BY BOOKKEEPER IN DYNAMITERS CASES

Witness States Checks Introduced in Trial Were Given J. J. McNamara For Purchase of Explosives.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 14.—Checks by which the government charges the executive board of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers allowed J. J. McNamara $1,000 a month to buy explosives were identified by McNamara's bookkeeper for McNamara at the Iron Workers' headquarters in Indianapolis. McNamara testified that the checks were signed by Frank M. Ryan, president and by McNamara, as secretary-treasurer. All these checks, she said, were marked "emergency fund." The government charges that just prior to the payment of the regular sums to McNamara, for which he was required to give an accounting, the executive board suspended the rules, requiring publications of accounts and the $1,000 a month went to McNamara until after the explosions at Los Angeles, Cal., enabling him to pay the expense of the "dynamiting crew." ## TELLS OF RECEIPTS AND EXPENDITURES OF WILSON FORCES

William McCombs, Chairman National Democratic Committee, Testified Before Clapp Committee Investigation.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Washington, Oct. 14.—William F. McCombs of New York, chairman of the national democratic committee was the first witness today before the Clapp committee investigating funds, said $208,000 had been contributed to the fund this year in behalf of Gov. Wilson's nomination. "I began this campaign for Gov. Wilson in May, 1911," he said. "For the first month or two the campaign was directed from my own office and I paid the expenses out of my own pocket. Then I established headquarters in New York. I think I spent about $10,000 myself." Mr. McCombs produced a list of contributors to the Wilson fund. He testified that $12,000 credited to Fred C. Penfield, was all the money that contributor had given. Senator Dixon of the Roosevelt forces had testified he understood Mr. Penfield had made "huge contributions."

For Publicity Purposes. Mr. McCombs said that the greater part of his funds were expended for publicity. "We had to acquaint the people of the United States with Governor Wilson," he said, "and a wide campaign of education is necessary. There is not a dollar in that statement which reflects any promise expressed or implied on my part. No representations were made to anyone to induce them to contribute except that this country needs a man like Wilson for the president of the United States."

None of the other lots have been sold and the probability is that they will not be as very few people know where they are or which ones are on the market or their prices, etc., information that must be published before the property is really on the market.

Defeats the Red Sox by a Score of Five to Two in New York This Afternoon.

HERE'S A SLICE OF WORLD SERIES CROWD

Here's a very small slice of the big crowd that witnessed Thursday's world's series game at Boston. More than 30,000 fans were in attendance and they paid something like $60,000 to see the Giants beat the Red Sox by a score of 2 to 1.

blew up and was succeeded by Collins, who pitched a handsome game for the rest of the afternoon. Marquard was airtight, except in the second inning when the Sox got in two runs. After that neither side scored. The final score was:

Boston..... 2 7 2
New York..... 5 11 1

Of the five games played thus far Boston has three won and New York has a single victory and the next satisfaction of one tied. To win the series McGraw's men must capture, barring the tie—every remaining game. Although the sky was over cast this morning the official prediction was fair weather. There was plenty of fans who expected to see the Giants embrace the slim chance left. The reputation of McGraw's men for taking an unexpected break when it looked as if they were down and out would be one reason why Boston's hope to end the series today stood a good chance of being shattered. Boston's own come back of 1903 when with three games gone and Pittsburgh took the remaining four was the Giants hope.

"Rube" Marquard was McGraw's choice in the box today. The big left hander has played in the only game won by the Giants and has had a good rest. Ray Collins, Buck O'Brien might be Stahl's choice in the box section. From purely personal standpoint many fans hoped it would be Collins hoping to see a duel between the two left handers.

The batting order was as follows: Boston: Hooper, cf.; Herkes, second base; Speaker, cf.; Louis, lf.; Gardner, third base; Stahl, first base; Wagner, short stop; Carrigan, catcher; Collins, pitcher.

New York: Spodgrass, rf.; Doyle, second base; Becker, cf.; Murray, lf.; Merkle, first base; Hurzog, third base; Merkle, catcher; Fletcher, short stop; Marquard, pitcher.

Those most severely injured are being taken to Centinge as the hospitals here are over crowded.

To Return Home. Constantinople, Oct. 14.—The Bulgarian, Serbian and Greek ministers here have received instructions from their governments to be ready to leave as soon as they receive notification from their respective capitals. The rupture of diplomatic relations between the three Balkan states and the Ottoman empire is awaited hourly.

Losses Estimated. London, Oct. 14.—That the Montenegrin troops lost 100 killed and wounded in their attack on the town of Byelopozrye, in the Sanjak of Novi-pazar is stated in the official reports of the battle received by the Montenegrin consul general here. The Turkish troops, who died after the battle of Sinitza, are said to have suffered heavily.

Defeated Turks. The report also confirms heavy fighting by the Montenegrin columns under Gen. Martinovitch. It says that his advance guard encountered a body of Turkish troops from Tara-kosch, and these are reported to have lost 300 killed and wounded during the battle while the Montenegrin casualties totalled 160.

Burned Forts. Gen. Martinovitch burned several Turkish block houses, but their garrison to flight and then with his troops crossed the river Boyana. The Malissory tribesmen in the neighborhood of Scutari have joined forces with the Montenegrin troops.

TURNS SEARCHLIGHT ON COL. ROOSEVELT

SENATOR JOHN M. THURSTON EXPOSES FALSITY OF HIS MANY CLAIMS.

ATTACKS HIS POLICIES

Terms Them Destructive and Subversive of Fundamental Institutions—Upholds Protective Tariff.

Favorite Roosevelt claims to valor and accomplishment were put under the glare of the searchlight, dissected, and then completely exploded by Senator John M. Thurston of Nebraska, who spoke to a good sized audience at the Myers theatre, Saturday night under the auspices of the Janesville Taft club. But the Senator did not stop with removing the glamour from his African lion hunts and military career; he reviewed his administration, showing he never raised a finger to revise the tariff; uncovered his betrayal of the La Follette boom, and attacked his policies as subversive of the constitution and fundamental institutions. He devoted the greater part of his speech to Roosevelt and the Progressive party, attacked the Democratic tariff policy, but made no references to the Democratic candidate for president, Woodrow Wilson.

The speaker was introduced by City Attorney William H. Dougherty with a few well chosen remarks on the significance of the issues to be decided in the present campaign. His voice was husky from frequent public speaking but he expressed confidence in the ability of his voice to "come back." In his opening remarks he referred with pleasure to the fact that he was a native of Wisconsin, Beaver Dam being his birthplace and boyhood home.

"I am not here," said Senator Thurston, "to abuse any person or party. The man who does it is not worth listening to, and is entitled to no respect. I may have some plain things to say, but I am prepared to back them up with the records. Although I may already have been made a member of the Annapolis club, I have some very estimable associates.

"For many years past we have had two great parties. We need two great parties, nearly evenly balanced. If one becomes too dominant it is apt to become arrogant. It needs opposition strong enough to keep it in check. I am glad we have the democratic party. It has had many great statesmen among its members. In the last few years many have supported many Republican measures and the Democratic party has been getting better all the time.

"We could stand the return to power of the Democratic party. We might have a return of the hard times of '93 or '97, but we could survive it. The great question now before us is whether this country shall remain a republic. We are face to face with an attempt to tear asunder the republican party, and the great issue is whether its members are going to stand together or be assassinated. Should the republican party die, who knows what will follow it, what associations will be formed, or along what lines a new party will be developed. "As between the republican and democratic parties the issue is the same as it has been for many years past, the issue of the tariff. The republican party is concerned with the maintenance of a protective tariff system and of adjusting it to changing conditions. It has never stood for a tariff, and does not now."

Senator Thurston, denied the charge that the republican party was not progressive. He declared that it came into existence out of the necessity of progress, the abolition of negro slavery. This object accomplished it followed with other progressive measures. It made prebends as good as gold, overthrew the theory of free silver, conceived the idea of protection and made the United States the guardian and ward of the weaker countries in the western hemisphere.

"Since when, and in what measure are we not progressive? When the charge is run to its source, all the foundation it has is that four years ago we promised to revise the tariff downward. I freely admit that this was the meaning and purpose."

At this point the Senator recounted some earlier tariff history. He said that just before the Spanish-American war President McKinley was planning a revision of the tariff. The war that followed absorbed all his energies and attention, and it was but a short time afterward that he was struck down by the hand of an assassin. Theodore Roosevelt stepped into his place and in the seven years during which he dominated Congress with the "big stick" he never offered a suggestion, and never sent in a message advocating tariff reduction or revision.

"This is the man who insists that the Republican party is not progressive and should go out of power. I believe in tariff revision but of the most careful and considerate kind. It has meant too much to the welfare and prosperity of our country to be handled carelessly."

By way of illustrating conditions resulting from the democratic tariff policy the speaker referred to the industrial and commercial situation in 1892, when the democratic party came into full power for the first time. They changed but one law, that the tariff law, mill wheels were silent and jobs and hungry laborers thronged the streets. As soon as McKinley was elected confidence was restored and the wheels began to turn before Congress met to carry out the party pledges.

"Of all unjust charges in this campaign, the falsest is that Taft failed to keep his promise to revise the tariff downward. Taft did not make the tariff bill, but congress did. If he vetoed the Payne bill the old tariff law would have remained in force. If he did sign the bill the country would receive some revision of a beneficial character."

Senator Thurston characterized as ridiculous the democratic charge that the tariff was responsible for the high cost of living. In support of his denial he referred to the removal of the duty on hides and the reduction of the tariff on lumber. The prices on shoes and leather goods, and of lumber had risen steadily since the tariff on them was changed.

The rest of the Senator's address was devoted to Roosevelt and the progressive party. He said that Roosevelt, having failed in his attempt to steal the republican nomination, was bent on destroying the republican party. His convention was entirely a one man affair, and his platform embraced all the planks he could appropriate from the Socialist party. The contests, he said, were in all but two cases trumped up, and the claims of legitimacy so preposterous that Roosevelt's own friends were ashamed to vote in their support. One hundred and three contests were thrown out as fraudulent.

The Roosevelt delegates from Texas were elected at elections from which negro voters were totally excluded and so manifestly corrupt that Senator Borah of Idaho, protested and moved that they be excluded from the convention.

The betrayal of La Follette by Roosevelt was laid bare by the speaker who had intimate knowledge of its circumstances. Friends of Roosevelt rented office rooms in his own building in Washington, put from seventy to eighty clerks at work and counted butted $62,000 to his campaign fund. He was really becoming strong when Medill McCormick, on the behalf of Roosevelt's friends, shut off the supplies and the clerks were transferred to the Munsey building where Roosevelt headquarters were opened.

Among the pet Roosevelt stories "knocked in the head" by the Senator, was "How I Shot My First Grizzly Bear." Thurston declared that he knew through Roosevelt's own guide that the guide killed the bear and that Roosevelt, was all of four miles away, lounging in camp. Official records in the War Department showed, he said, that Roosevelt did not lead the charge up San Juan Hill, that it was led by Captain William H. Beck, and that there was not an officer above the rank of Captain in the fight. Roosevelt was four miles away. When he hunted in Africa negroes drove the game out of the jungle within easy range of his rifle.

"The great question of this campaign," said the Senator in closing is that of upholding the constitution of the United States against the policies advocated by Roosevelt. I do not fear that it will be destroyed now or that the judicial department will be at once emasculated, but that the axe may be laid at the root of the tree, and will attack on our fundamental institution begun."

Several streets are receiving their second coat of oil this season. Those treated thus far are the macadam streets fronting on the Corn Exchange square and Jackson and Wall streets around the city hall. Others on which oil will be applied are a block on South Wisconsin street, one on East Division street between Milwaukee and Court streets, two blocks on North Academy street just beyond the railway tracks, and four blocks on High street. The oil will make the streets dustless for the rest of the season and put them in good shape to stand the wash of winter rains and spring freshets.

How To Resist

Chronic Coughs and Colds.

Strong vigorous men and women hardly ever catch cold; it's only when the system is run down and vitality low that colds and coughs get a foothold.

Now isn't it reasonable that the right way to cure a cough is to build up your run down condition again?

Mrs. Olivia Parham of East Durham, N. C., says: "I took Vinol for a chronic cough which had lasted two years, and the cough not only disappeared, but it built up my strength as well."

The reason Vinol is so efficacious in such cases is because it contains in a delicious concentrated form all the medicinal curative elements of cod liver oil, with tonic, blood building iron added.

Chronic coughs and colds yield to Vinol because it builds up the weakened, run-down system.

You can get your money back any time if Vinol does not do all we say. Smith Drug Co., Janesville, Wis.

BASEBALL NOTES.

The Red Sox won every series in the American League this year except one, and tied the Cleveland Indians in that one.

Hess, Tyler and McTigue the Boston Braves have three good left-handed pitchers to start with next season.

"Jake" Daubert is, without a doubt the most popular ball player that Brooklyn has had in its line-up in many a day.

Washington fans are well pleased with the work of the Nationals this season, and expect Griffith's boys to cop the batting next year.

Many changes were made in the line-up of the Highlanders the past season. The team closed the season with six men holding down regular berths.

Each member of Joe Kelley's International League champions was presented with a gold medal and a purse of money, at the close of the season, by Toronto fans.

The Chicago White Sox have signed Roy C. Wolfe, star batter of the Illinois-Missouri League. He is the only player in Class D circles drafted by a major league club.

Manager Hugh Jennings, of the Detroit Tigers, believes that Pitcher "Dutch" Klawitter is now ripe for the big show. Klawitter, who had a trial with the Giants in 1910, is the star pitcher of the Portland, Ore., team this season.

FOOTBALL NOTES.

Hoban, a former Dartmouth half-back, is at Lehigh and expects to make the varsity eleven.

The directors of the Navy squad are trying to form a rush line that averages 100 pounds from end to end. Pennys thinks she has found another Stevenson in Craig, the quarterback on last year's freshman team.

With Vaughn, Bomister and Shevlin doing the coaching, the Yale ends ought to be well taken care of.

Some of the football critics declare that the Princeton Tigers' attack is built too much around Pendleton.

Foster Rockwell, the former Eli star, is expected at New Haven soon to help coach the Eli quarterback.

Captain Jim Thorpe, of the Carlisle Indians, is doing the same clever work this season that made him a hero last year.

Glenn Warner, the Carlisle coach, has just published a new book on football, but he does not diagram the Indians' successful plays.

Bill Roper, who is practicing law in Philadelphia, has begun work as an official for the Pennsylvania football games on Franklin Field.

The Vanderbilt eleven which play Harvard, Nov. 9, evidently have a scoring machine. The team rolled up 105 points against its opponents the first week of the season.

FOOTBALL.

Wisconsin is the newest football home. The Badgers entered from Saturday's football program with all the honors in sight, and will be regarded as the logical candidate for the 1912 championship.

Notice, as the result of their sensational 56 to 0 score against Northwestern at Madison. The Wisconsin performance outclassed any and all of the day's proceedings.

While the occasion was a glad one for the Badgers, the Northwestern ambitions have been knocked into the proverbial cocked hat. The footballists are not only eliminated from the championship race, but have a gigantic score against them in the records, and Coach Hammett will have to hump himself to keep within striking distance of the first division for the rest of the season.

The doings at Madison were a complete surprise to the men in purple, who thought they could hold the score to a low figure by fighting to the limit. The Badgers, however, took the wind out of the visitors in the first quarter, and wound up the day's work with a procession from goal to goal.

The conference fans are unanimous in handing the biggest laurels of the early season to Wisconsin for the brilliant exhibition.

Purple To Get Hard Drills.

There were some individual honors for Northwestern, such as the personal success of Lamke, Gruhn and Springer, but these will do little to raise the gloom from Northwestern University Field this week.

Coach Hammett will go the limit in working his men for the next few days in the hope of bringing the squad into better physical condition and getting rid of the most glaring of the weaknesses displayed at Madison.

Wisconsin's next opponent is Purdue, which will invade Camp Randall next Saturday to try conclusions with the home team. Purdue is claiming the best squad in its history, and it is a fair bet that the Wisconsin-Bowl game clash will be one of the scrappiest fights of the 1912 season.

Purdue will make or break itself next Saturday, and the practices at Lafayette for the rest of the week are bound to be the stiffest and most important so far.

Illinois likewise kept its place in the ratings by disposing of Washington University, 13 to 0, at Champaign. Washington is noted for its speedy eleven, and the Illinois were forced to show spectacular defensive tactics to grasp the victory.

As the Illinois line has hit for big gains occasionally, the efforts of the coaches will be centered on bolstering the forwards for the Illinois-Indiana game next Saturday.

Iowa Must Be Considered.

Iowa's feat in piling up a 31 to 0 score on Cornell entitled the Hawkeyes to serious consideration as a conference contender. Cornell beat Iowa last year and a number of the Cornell veterans were on the defeated team Saturday.

In spite of the high class opposition, Iowa demonstrated midseason form and impressed the scouts present as being one of the two or three most finished "big nine" organizations at this time.

Local rooters will get a full view of the Hawkeyes when they come to Marshall Field next Saturday to play Midwayties. Coach Staggs has had his eye on the game since the beginning of the practice season and guarantees the clash will be one of the liveliest of the season.

In view of the poor showing made by the Midway line to date, there is no reason to look for the closest kind of a rub in the coming battle.

Ohio State, the only other conference team in action, came to bat with a score of 34 to 0 against Denison, confirming the good impression made the week before. The Buckeyes will be playing in the conference next year, and their advance is distinctly pleasing to their conference colleagues.

Michigan Up To Standard.

Michigan's 35 to 7 score against the Wolverine "Angels" indicates that the Maize and Blue players are fully up to standard this year. Michigan is heavy and also fast, and should surpass last season's record when it gets into its best stride.

Coach Yost is not worrying over the prospects.

Te results in the East were, according to form, with the exception of the Pennsylvania-Swarthmore game, in which the Quakers went down to a 5 to 3 defeat.

Yale ran up only sixteen points against Lafayette, but Harvard humbled Williams, 26 to 3, and Princeton hung up a 31 to 0 score against Virginia Polytechnic.

CUBS POUND WALSH FOR A 4-2 VICTORY

Schulte Starts Seventh With a Homer Opening an Onslaught Which Netted Three Runs.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—The "Big Moose" Ed Walsh, pride of the White Sox and king of the south side fans, went down in defeat with his team mates at the west side ball park yesterday afternoon when Chance's warriors solved the Big Reel's delivery winning by the score of 4 to 2.

It was an exciting game and the fans which crowded the field on all sides threatened on several occasions to break out into a riot.

The Sox scored first in the sixth inning. The Cubs evened the score in their turn at bat. The Sox came back in the seventh with another run, and confident that all was to the good were not expecting the onslaught which followed.

Frank Schulte started the swiftest with a homer. That took the pep out of Walsh. Evers cracked the first ball pitched for a neat single after Saier had grounded out. An error by Walsh let Evers get to second and then Archer hit out a two-bagger giving the Cubs a one run lead.

But the end was not yet. Schulte's smash to right field was missed by Rath and Archer scored winning the game.

The Sox were helpless before Big Ed Ruelbach in the last two innings. The victory yesterday gives the Cubs the bulge on their opponents of two games won out of the four struggles, the first two of which were ties.

Manager Chance sees an easy victory for his team after solving Walsh's delivery which was the most formidable thing the Sox had to offer.

White Sox 0 0 0 0 1 1 0 2
Cubs 0 0 0 0 1 1 3 4

Jim Riley is slated for his opponent in tomorrow's match. The race will be rowed over a three-mile course for a side bet of $1,000. Ten Eyck has defeated Riley twice, and, despite his age, expects to do it again.

The Best Concert company of Chicago furnished the entertainment which was most acceptable and enjoyed by the audience present. Miss Margarette Austin, violinist, Mrs. M. M. Clever Comedy Played Before Packed House Yesterday Afternoon and Evening.

'A Millionaire Tramp,' a comedy drama, was the play at the Myers Theatre yesterday afternoon and evening. Large audiences enjoyed both performances. The play de-

Jack Snyder in the part of the 'Millionaire Tramp' was a very interesting character. Frank McNary in the role of Bruce Kellogg, the banker and villain of the play, was very well fitted for his part.

Miss Clara du Hadway, in the part of Josie Harris, a Bowery girl, furnished the mirth of the play.

INDUSTRIAL SCHOOLS.

The city of Saint Paul is experimenting with industrial schools, and efforts are made to interest the backward boys, who leave school between the ages of 14 and 16. The Association of Commerce says of the work:

"This is the first city in the northwest to inaugurate this feature for the backward boys, who in many cities become discouraged after they have reached the third or fourth grades and leave school. The experiment begun a year ago proved a success and industrial schools are now regularly established.

"The percentage of boys who leave school has decreased as a result. Industrial schools are holding them until they reach the eighth grade and are ready for the high school. Some of them at that time are ready to enter grades and enroll themselves as journeymen in a surprisingly short time. Others whose interest has been held and ambition stirred are entering high schools and advanced trade schools. But for the industrial schools these boys would have gone into the world with an imperfect training in the rudiments.

"In Saint Paul there are at present between fifty and sixty boys taking the various courses in the industrial schools which will be enlarged and made available for more students as the funds are procured. Mechanical drawing, wood-work, draftsmanship, architecture, and general mechanics are among the subjects taught; each boy is given a thorough grounding in the three R's.

"It is said that about 90 per cent of the male pupils quit school while in the grade classes and only about 2 per cent go through high school. The industrial schools are adapted to take care of this class. They are doing it in Saint Paul.

THE BULL MOOSE.

(From the published works of Theodore Roosevelt.)

"The Bull Moose lives on the public domain and is a very wasteful feeder. He is of a wandering and flighty disposition. His flesh, moreover, is coated and stringy.

"He frequently shows a clumsy slowness of apprehension which amounts to downright stupidity.

"Another noticeable characteristic of the Bull Moose is his inordinate selfishness. Whether roaming in the woods in solitude or tearing up the earth, or coming headlong to the call, he is thinking first, last and all the time of the safety of his own skin and the fullness of his own stomach.

"Further indication of the bull's essential selfishness are found in his frequent abuse and browbeating of all other moose that are smaller than himself. He cannot tolerate a rival, but flies into a jealous rage at the first suggestion that there is any other Bull Moose in the universe."

PLUNGES INTO THE TAR BARREL.

"Since the last issue of La Follette's Magazine, McGovern has plunged bodily into the Roosevelt tar barrel.

"If anything were needed to interpret the true significance of his course at Chicago, his action at this time is quite conclusive.

"The act was performed with bravado. But it would have been a finer example of courage to have taken his high dive before he was safely nominated.

"It 'musses him up' shockingly as a progressive republican candidate for governor of Wisconsin.

"But in the face of even greater misfortunes than this the Wisconsin progressive cause has survived and steadily advanced." — La Follette's Weekly.

After this sort of an introduction the senator's support will not be very enthusiastic. If he can save the legislature he cares but little what becomes of McGovern.

HUMANE PRISON TREATMENT.

The recent mutiny in the Michigan state prison, as the result of cruel and inhuman treatment, has led to much discussion and wide investigation, from which it appears that many states have abandoned old methods, and efforts are being made to reform as well as punish the criminal classes.

Arizona, the youngest state in the union, leads the procession, as will be seen by the following story from the November number of the Technical World magazine:

"A remarkable scene took place in the legislature of Arizona this spring when the law-makers enthusiastically voted for the parole of a certain convict in the state penitentiary, granting him a leave of absence for thirty days and by means of private contributions raising a fund to defray his expenses to Washington, D. C., and return.

"The prisoner, Roy J. Meyers, is serving a three and a half year sentence, but in spite of the fact that he bears the stigma of a convicted law-breaker, he has demonstrated that a convict can be a useful member of society. During his imprisonment he perfected an electrical device of such original character as to arouse feelings of wonder and skepticism until experts had seen it in actual operation. It is a device to draw electricity from the atmosphere for light and power, and the thirty day parole was granted in order that the inventor might protect his rights through the patent office at Washington.

"With the acquiescence of the legislature, Governor Hunt granted the parole and the prisoner was allowed to go free without any guard or any assurance but his word of honor that he would return. Two days before the period had elapsed, Meyers again presented himself before the governor, having accomplished his mission, and then returned to the penitentiary at Florence, where he continues to serve his sentence.

"This, in brief is the picturesque story which has called attention of the civilized world to a newly discovered electrical genius, and to another feature of the case which is of equal importance and human interest; namely, the enlightened policy pursued by our youngest state in its treatment of convicts.

"Meyers' chance came when Governor George W. B. Hunt chose as superintendent of the penitentiary at Florence a man of very different type from the political hanger-on who too often fills such a position. 'Big Bob' Sims was a business man of advanced views, and was chosen for the position because of his knowledge of human nature and his executive ability.

"One of the progressive steps he took was to abolish the stripes in the penitentiary, and to adopt a much less rigorous confinement of the inmates. The 'honor system' with the co-operation of Governor Hunt, was inaugurated.

"Before entering the prison, Meyers had already applied for various patents, among them one for an improved trolley head which prevents the trolley wheel from jumping the wire. Meyers had a conference with Superintendent Sims and Parole Clerk Sanders, and it was to these gentlemen that the inventor first explained the principles of his new device for securing electrical energy from the air. The officials were willing to give the man an opportunity to develop his plan and a little wooden building outside the walls was turned over to Meyers and was fitted up as a workshop and a laboratory. The first demonstration of the new apparatus was made shortly thereafter, the electricity drawn from the atmosphere being used to spark the gas engines of the pump house, and although the device was crude yet it did the work, and removed the doubts of his friends. Further development of the 'absorber' followed, and his second model was constructed, and developed eight volts."

The health revival, under the auspices of the Gazette and a number of the churches, promises to accomplish a great work for the city. An audience of three hundred men attended the initial meeting at the Cargill Methodist church yesterday afternoon and every man left the room an enthusiastic supporter of the movement. Mr. Flynn, the health evangelist, is an irresistible force. The doctrine he teaches is the care of the body, and his methods are so simple and practical that any one can use them. You can't afford to miss the lecture tonight.

The significance of the vote on woman's suffrage at the late convention of club women in the city, is not fully appreciated unless the strength of the opposition is considered. About one-third of the delegates objected to forcing the ballot on women who do not want it. If the question of suffrage could be left to the women of the country to decide, as it should be, it would be found that a large majority are not only not asking for it, but do not want it. The average wife and mother is not a suffragist.

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

By ROY K. MOULTON.

Satisfied.
I'm glad I ain't running
To be the president.
Bekuz I stole a hoss once.
And no one cares a cent.

My past they're not muckraking.
The public can go hang.
I smoked a cigarette once
And no one cares a dang.

I used to play the banjo
And no one seems to care,
They've not dug up this scandal
And chased it to its lair.

So long as I ain't running
No prizes at all about,
And there are things about me
They never will find out.

Let others seek the office,
I'll stay up on the shelf;
The details of my dizzy past
I'll keep right to myself.

A Piscatorial Adventure.

Two young gentlemen who live near Hickoryville when they are at home, have just had a very thrilling experience one in fact, of which Baron Munchausen might have been proud if it had happened to him. They were fishing from a canoe in Hardwood Lake when one of them felt a tug on the line. It felt like one of the steam tugs, such as infest the Chicago river, but it was not, it was only a muskellonge, but it pulled so hard that it pulled the canoe from one end of the lake to the other nineteen times. The boys had a hard time hanging on to the pole and they experienced all of the delights of motor-boating. Their average speed, according to innocent bystanders who watched from the shore, was about 45 knots per hour. While tearing down the lake on the twentieth lap dragging the canoe and the two frightened boys behind it, the muskellonge forgot to try and dashed head foremost up the bank. His speed was so great that he slid about a quarter of a mile down the road dragging the canoe behind him. Several farmers came with shotguns and killed the muskellonge. There are various estimates as to his weight, but it was not ascertained as there are no hay scales in that vicinity.

PLACES THE BLAME FOR CITY'S MORALS

REV. CHAS. J. ROBERTS TELLS OF VICE CONDITIONS IN SUN- DAY EVENING SERMON.

TREATS A VITAL TOPIC

Expression Following Citizens' Meeting On Friday Evening Comes As A Timely Review of Facts.

The mayor and councilmen, the police officers, municipal judge, and prosecuting attorneys, and last but not least, the citizens of Janesville were treated to a most timely and vital topic in the mass meeting at the city hall Friday evening. Rev. Charles J. Roberts, pastor of the United Brethren church, last evening.

Rev. Roberts gave a strong address on the situation and his expression is timely following the protest as voiced by the citizens in their mass meeting at the city hall Friday evening. He spoke plainly in regard to the situation and made some good recommendations including the suggestion that the mayor employ a number of plain clothes men on the police force.

Mr. Roberts spoke as follows:

"Political economy demands that nothing should be tolerated which brings disaster to any of our citizens. Anything which thrives at the expense of the citizen, which does not contribute good for the value received, is to be eliminated.

"Please examine the licensed saloon in the light of this statement. Again the law says: 'No legislative act can bargain away the public health or morals.' We have recently had passed what we call the 'pure food laws.' It has cost hundreds of dollars to have it passed and is costing hundreds to get it enforced but we do not mind that, it is worth it. We are protecting the health. We are being safeguarded in that poison does not enter into what we eat.

"I think the most important law we need is a 'pure drink law.' Use the drink be analyzed and if found to contain poison, prohibit its sale. It is just as important to safeguard what we drink as what we eat. If by pure food you protect the health, then by pure drink you protect both the health and the morals.

"Of course, I am materially opposed to the licensed saloon business, first, last and all the time, and will strike it every chance I get. But the majority of the citizens of Janesville have decided to allow the saloon, so as a law-abiding citizen I am willing to abide by that decision. And we will not deal with conditions as they are, but as we would like to have them.

"What are the conditions in Janesville today? First: We have fifty-six licensed saloons in the city. Any one knows that fifty-six saloons can not pay licenses, obey the laws, and make a living for those who run them. If we are going to have saloons at all, we have too many. Second: The law requires that licenses must be granted to men of good moral character. Did the men in authority in this city investigate thoroughly and find out that all fifty-six were men of good moral character? I do not think so.

"I am told that men who were run out of other towns near Janesville came here and had no trouble to secure licenses. In my judgment I do not think one of the fifty-six men engaged in the saloon business in this city is a moral man, because I do not think a moral man would engage in so low a business. But the council and I do not seem to agree on that proposition. They thing they are all moral.

"It is a well known fact that the saloons have been doing business on Sunday as well as any other days. The screen ordinance for Sundays and holidays was a mere pretense. There has just been a trial opening made so that if you make a glass out of your hand, you can tell that there is a little light burning in the rear of the saloon. The recent tragedy has brought out the fact that it has been a common thing for minors to buy all the liquor they wanted in practically all the saloons in town. Then there are many other things which have been contributing to the delinquency of the youth of the city such as pool-rooms, cigar stores, slot machines, Sunday theaters, houses of prostitution and many other things.

"Who is to blame for these conditions? First: The mayor and councilmen. When the present mayor was running for office he is reported to have said: 'I know conditions in this town as well as any other man, and all I want is a chance.' How has he improved that chance? I leave you to judge. One of the councilmen of the city seems to belong to the saloon, soul and body. The other seems to be between the deep sea and the devil, and the mayor seems to be deficient in back bone.

"Then there are others who are responsible as the Police Board, the Police Court, and judge, the district attorney, and last, but not least, the people.

"We are to blame. If we want the law enforced, we must be willing to do our part. What can we all do to make conditions better?

"First: I would suggest that we do everything in our power to influence, or rather to compel the officers to enforce the law. Go see them, write them letters, write articles some of you for the Gazette on the subject. Compliment them if they do enforce the law; show them that you are with them, but 'give them fits' if they do not. Ferret out cases and take them to them, on a platter, if necessary. It is too bad that citizens are compelled to do this but it is better than having murders and all kinds of crime in our city.

"I would suggest that the mayor and some plain clothes men on the police force. This plan has been used successfully in other cities, why not try it here.

"I insist on an ordinance compelling all boys and girls under a certain age to be off the streets at nine o'clock at night. What we need is a campaign to agitate, educate, legislate and enforce.

PETTY THEFTS MADE ON SATURDAY NIGHT

Clothing and Shoes Taken From Outside Grubb Store and Jewelry From Pond & Bailey's.

Light fingered and nimble thieves were at work in the city early Saturday night and made robberies at two different places, the clothing store of Stephen Grubb, and the Pond and Bailey dry good store. The articles taken from the Grubb store, two pairs of black shoes, a pair of corduroy trousers, and a gray sweater, were stolen from the outside of the store where they had been displayed and left until after dark. Since the new Apple theatre was begun, there has always been a crowd of cloaksters watching the work and Mr. Grubb thinks that one of these fellows grabbed himself of an opportunity to fit himself out with clothing. The hangers were taken with the clothes. Twenty-five silver rings, retelling at twenty-five cents each, and five bead necklaces, were stolen at the Pond & Bailey store. The thieves grabbed the jewelry, standars and all from the showcases near the front of the store without drawing the attention of the clerk. Discovery of the theft was not made until some members of the Dower City Band, going up to their rooms over the store to practice, found the stolen standard in the stairway to the east of the store and brought it into the store. The thief had broken off the top of the standard to which the necklaces were attached, evidently slipping the rest under his coat.

The police made an investigation following their notification of the thefts, but no clues have yet been found.

HIBERNIANS ENJOY
INITIATION SUNDAY

Large Class Received Into Local Lodge at Enthusiastic Session Yesterday Afternoon.

There was an enthusiastic gathering of Hibernians at their club rooms yesterday afternoon when a large class of candidates were received into the order. Joseph P. Cullen, state president of the lodge, was here from Milwaukee and presided as master of ceremonies. In an address to the lodge he congratulated them on the rapid growth of the Janesville organization. Prof. M. J. Rohan of Marquette university and Rev. Dean Reilly had to leave for Milwaukee early in the afternoon which deprived the members of two fine addresses. City Attorney W. H. Dougherty made the address of the day which was received with vigorous applause.

Harry Siegal presided at the piano and J. H. Burns, John Brennan, D. J. Luby, Dr. McGuire and Harold Dolan made a fine chorus. Their selections were highly appreciated.

FOLLOWS UP ORDER
ON SLOT MACHINES

Chief of Police Made Round of Inspection This Afternoon to Note If Order is Obeyed.

To make sure that the order demanding that all gambling slot machines be removed is being obeyed, Chief of Police Appleby this noon started on a round of inspection of the saloons, drug stores, cigar stores, and other places that have harbored such machines. As far as he or his patrolmen have been able to note, the order is being obeyed. A number of saloon keepers asked permission to keep the machines in their places until today, but that they could find some place to put them, and they were granted that much leniency. This is the last concession, however, and the chief announced this morning that if he found any in the places he visited today he would at once place the proprietors under arrest. Slot machines have been kept in so many different places that it may not be possible for the chief to finish his inspection today, but if he does not he will continue it tomorrow. The order applies only to gambling slot machines. Those which are used for vending gum or always give value received are not included, and are not illegal.

Mrs. Nina Graham Walley.

Mrs. Nina Graham Walley, who before October 10 last, was Miss Nina Graham, enjoys the unique distinction of being the only English woman ever to secure a degree at an engineering school. She graduated recently from the University of Liverpool with high honors. It is doubtful, however, if she will follow her profession as one of the first things she did on leaving the university was to marry a Mr. Walley, also an engineer, of Winnipeg, Canada. Mrs. Walley is the daughter of Capt. Graham, who is well known in Liverpool shipping circles.

The International complications which have arisen during the week have created anxiety in the money centers of Europe and caused a certain amount of liquidation of American securities in our market. Because of our forced purchases, we are now compelled to remit extensive amounts to Europe in settlement. This has stopped our importation of gold and advanced rates for foreign exchange. Despite decided nervousness on the Continent, the London market has maintained a steady tone, and the Bank of England announces no change in the present discount for the coming week. The outlook is for a continuance of the present stiff rates for money for some time to come.

The Stock Market.
The European liquidation of American securities resulted in a limited decline in prices. However, because of this year's indicated agricultural yield, which, according to the Government bureau's estimate, is the largest in our history, it is impossible for the United States to be otherwise than optimistic. This optimism was clearly shown by the absorptive power of our market. Close observers of the situation are of the opinion that Europe will soon be buying back, at higher prices, the very stocks which they are now anxiously liquidating. As to the possibilities for war, from an economic view point, a European war would furnish a market at high prices for our surplus of foodstuffs this year. In judging the future trend of prices, it is well to remember that no other nation is today offering the world investment securities of equal stability, yielding as high a rate of income as is to be derived from our best class of Railroad and Industrial shares. For this reason, it is logical to anticipate a broadening demand for our securities.

Reverting to our agricultural production and the enormous addition which will be made to our national wealth from this source. Because our railroads are not equipped to handle our enormous agricultural production, it will require a longer time than usual to get the crops to market. For the time being, this congestion will tie up a large part of our available banking surplus.
However, the crops are being moved to market as fast as possible. This is reflected in the steady improvement in Railroad gross earnings and the end of the year will no doubt reveal decided gains in net earnings, not only for the Railroad Companies, but the Industrial Companies as well. Such a condition plainly forecasts higher prices.

Copper Stocks.
The outlook is decidedly favorable for the Copper stocks. At the present time it is practically assured that the directors of the Amalgamated Copper Company will increase the dividend rate on this Company's shares to 6% at the meeting on October 24th. Such action should stimulate the shares of other producing companies, of which the Utah Copper, Nevada Consolidated, Ray Consolidated and Miami are the more prominent. It is estimated that the Utah Copper Company will earn $1.75 per share, applicable to dividends this year. Inasmuch as the present rate is but $3.00 a share, it is anticipated that this dividend rate will be advanced to $6.00 a share. Other companies will no doubt make equally good showings for the year.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

THE INCONSISTENT SEX.

WHICH is the inconsistent sex? The older I grow, the more I protest against the accepted answer to that question. Women, to be sure, are very inconsistent about some things, but if anyone can point out a greater inconsistency in the feminine character than the average male shows in the discrepancy between what he thinks he likes in a woman and what he actually likes, I shall be ashamed of my sex.

Once upon a time there was a young woman who dressed her hair with a Puritan simplicity which was not becoming to her. She did this because her husband had always told her that he disliked anything in the nature of rats or puffs, that he could instantly tell when a woman had them on, and that he thought they were always disfiguring.

Now one day a girl friend, who was visiting this woman, persuaded her hostess to let her do the latter's hair in fluffy ruffles style. The result was surprisingly becoming, but the hostess insisted that she must take it down before her husband came home as he would not approve. Finally, however, she was persuaded by the author of the new headress not to change it. "I bet he'll like it," said the audacious one. "You don't know him," said his wife.

But as it proved she knew him better than he knew himself, for when she came home his greeting to her was, "Why how nice you look dear! What have you been doing to your hair? It's just what I wish you'd wear it every night."

A doctor's wife tells how she meekly adopted all her husband's suggestions as to heelless shoes, boneloss corsets, shapeless dresses and rattleless hair, and never suspected that she wasn't delighting his eyes until she heard him enquire over the wives of some new friends. She made an effort to meet the women, and found that without exception they typified the opposite of his suggestions to her.

Again, men will almost invariably tell you that they dislike any sort of perfume on a woman, and yet their cluster like bees about the attractive woman whose affection of some particular fragrance is one of her attractions.

Nor is it just in little matters like this that men do not know their own minds. Indeed, no. Many a man will describe his ideal woman to you one day as a quiet, unassuming, simply gowned girl with some intelligence and character, and the next day will throw himself at the feet of some under-bred, over-dressed creature with about as much intelligence in her head as in the puffs that cover it.

Which really deserves to be called the inconsistent sex?

I wonder.

No, on second thought, I don't.

27, but he is providing for his mother and fears his mother objects to our marrying. He has a sweet disposition. My people like him. How can I gain his mother's love, for we would have to live with her? He has been married and divorced two years. (2)—Should he buy my wedding suit?—V. P.

You will not be happy with this man, under the circumstances, so better put your affection somewhere else. Apparently he has not the courage to stand up for a wife. Be guided by the way his former marriage turned out. (2)—Yes.

The Kitchen Cabinet

IT IS not a sign of power to mean a great deal to people around us. Even if people's interests are unworthy or misdirected, we shall not win them in higher ground by riding rough shod over those interests. The worthless trifles that a young lad carries in his pockets are dear to him, and he loves the teacher who respects the things he holds dear.

A FEW LEFT-OVERS.

When you have a few slices of roast mutton, prepare it in the following manner: Chop a small onion and fry in a saucepan with a tablespoonful of butter, then add a tablespoonful of flour, and brown. Mix a tablespoonful of Worcestershire sauce, a tablespoonful of vinegar, half a teaspoonful of pepper and salt, a tablespoonful of currant jelly and a cup of water. When the onion and flour is cooked, pour in the above mixture and just simmer with the slices of mutton twenty minutes. Do not boil.

Shepherd's Pie.—Put a layer of minced roast beef in a baking dish after placing a layer of seasoned mashed potatoes at the bottom. Moisten the meat with gravy, season to taste and finish with a layer of mashed potatoes. This dish requires much rich gravy.

Beef Balls.—Season a cup of cold chopped beef with salt, pepper, celery salt, onion juice and lemon juice, add one beaten egg and form into balls. Roll the balls in a very little butter and toss in a hot frying pan until hot. Serve with horseradish sauce.

Horseradish Sauce.—Season two tablespoonfuls of grated horseradish with a quarter of a teaspoonful of salt and a quarter of a teaspoonful of sugar. Whip a quarter of a cup of cream and add to the horseradish. If one has no cream, use an equal quantity of horseradish and bread crumbs made moist with milk. Season with vinegar and pepper and salt. If the mass is put through a sieve it will be smooth and creamy in consistency.

Corned beef hash is greatly improved by the addition of a chopped green pepper.

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS

BY MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

HEART AND HOME Problems. Dear Mrs. Thompson: I live with my folks on a farm. I have a good home and am 21. I have been keeping steady company for some time with a young man of 23, but there are a few objections on my side as he drinks occasionally, but not to a great extent. He is industrious and has a high education. Had I better continue with matrimony in view?

Sometimes a man drinks occasionally without harming himself, and sometimes such a man is safer than one who has never touched drink and doesn't know how strong or weak he would be if he tasted it.

If he is a moral man and strong-minded, and if you love each other, why not continue? Matrimony is always a risk anyway.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Should a crowd of young people, between 15 and 19 years of age, go to a party six miles in the country without a chaperone? (2)—Is it proper for a boy of 18 to put his arm around the back of a girl's chair in company? (3)—Is it proper for six young people to go and sit in another room, leaving one alone in the other room if this person would not go with the crowd? (4)—How late should young folks stay out to a party?

BROWN EYES. (1)—They should have a chaperone. (2)—It's not very mannerly. (3)—If the one didn't want to go, the crowd was at liberty to leave him. (4)—If without a chaperone, they should be home at 10 p. m. With a chaperone they might stay until midnight if she thought proper.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: What is the proper side for a girl to part her hair?—E. P. S.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Is it proper for a young man to tell a young lady when he will call again, upon leaving her, or is it the young lady's place?

E. M. He should say that he hopes to see her again soon, and it is polite for her to ask him to come again. But if they are good friends, both should take it for granted that he will call when he can.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1)—I am keeping steady company with a man

DIET AND HEALTH HINTS

By DR. T. J. ALLEN

A DISAPPOINTED READER.

A reader says he has found by following some of the suggestions in these hints that he "cannot live on any special diet and get the highest results." I am quite sure that no intelligent reader who has followed the explanation of principles and considered the cases reported of tests made, will deny that there is any other way to get the highest results than by adopting a rational diet instead of the hit-or-miss practice of the average man. It is evident that the correspondent is a new reader, has not carefully considered all the evidence submitted and probably has made a sudden change and concluded that because he does not get the desired results there is no benefit in a scientific diet. He has overlooked the advice to make changes gradually, not to expect immediate benefit, and that there are peculiarities which require time to determine.

Every bread maker thinks her own bread quite as good as it is possible to make it; therefore we do not propose to advance criticism but only to tell how grandma made her bread spongy and light with homemade hop-yeast.

Of course we have the compressed yeast always with us, but a change in the flavor of the daily bread is sometimes relished even by those who know their bread is the best in the world.

Hops are ripe now and ready to pick; boil a pint of them in three pints of water until the liquid is reduced to one quart. Grate six medium sized cold boiled potatoes, add three tablespoonfuls of sugar, six of flour and two of salt. Work this to a paste and pour in the boiling strained hop water stirring all the time.

A cup of bakers' yeast may be added to the mixture for a "starter." If the yeast is needed before it has time to ferment, add enough flour to thicken the paste and place in a warm spot until it ceases to bubble.

When quite light, put in jars, and cork, and keep in cool place. In warm weather this yeast will keep fresh about ten days, when the weather is cool for six weeks.

To bake with hop yeast set the sponge at night; mash three boiled potatoes free from lumps, add a pint of warm water and stir in enough flour to make a stiff batter, add a cup of hop-yeast and beat thoroughly. Cover with a cloth and keep in even temperature over night.

In the morning add salt and knead in enough flour to make a dough. Two tablespoonfuls of shortening and one tablespoonful of sugar improves all breads.

Work until smooth; put to rise in warm place. If it is longer than two hours rising there is something wrong with temperature or strength of the yeast.

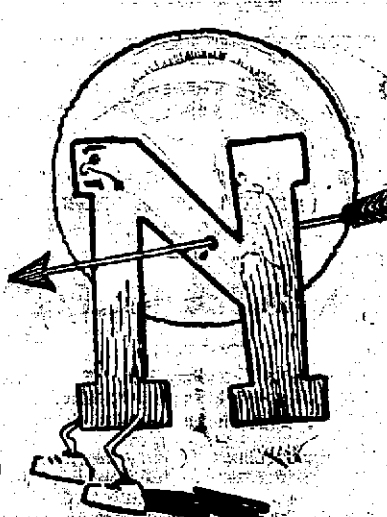

Knead into loaves or rolls, adding

EVOKES ENTHUSIASM IN HEALTH CAMPAIGN

W. EARL FLYNN SPOKE TO TWO LARGE AUDIENCES HERE YESTERDAY

INTRODUCES METHODS

Good Health Evangelist, Expounds
Trilogy of Mental Attitude,
Diet and Exercise.

With addresses to two large audiences, held almost simultaneously by his vital message, his original and spectacular manner of presentation and his magnetic personality, W. Earl Flynn, the famed health evangelist of Berkeley, California, yesterday opened his campaign for good health in Janesville, under auspices that promise marked and noteworthy success. Mr. Flynn gave his first address, for men and boys only, at the Carroll Methodist church in the afternoon. The second was delivered to a mixed audience at the Presbyterian church last evening. At both meetings he held the close attention of his hearers from beginning to end and evoked great enthusiasm for the work which he has undertaken. His addresses were by way of introduction to the series which follow and though he did not dwell at length on any one phase of his message, and methods, he gave a very good general idea of their nature. He used numerous illustrations, both demonstrations and anecdotes.

Speaking at the Carroll Methodist church, where he was introduced by Superintendent H. C. Buell of the high school, Mr. Flynn prefaced his remarks by "clearing the deck for action," in this instance, removing out of harm's way and danger of interference, the flowers and table that stood before him.

"I want lots of room," said Mr. Flynn. "I couldn't speak in one of these high narrow pulpits; I have to speak with my whole body. I want to feel perfectly at home. If I did not feel perfectly at home in a church I would get out of it. When a man gets so solemn and begins to act so dignified that he can't laugh, what he needs is a physic."

"Coming down to the object of this meeting, what can we men do to become well and help others to become well. Have you reached the point where you are not progressing? Take an account of yourself. You will have to become an individual to accomplish anything. Because another man has been successful in his way don't follow in his tracks, cover them up and make your own. If you are a churchman, be the liveliest worker in that church; if a man, be a man."

Mr. Flynn took care to emphasize the fact that he was not a healer or practitioner, and that his work is that of inspiration and instruction. He did not plead the cause of any sect, Christian Science, New Thought, or any others, nor did he propose to attack them. He did insist that his hearers not go out of their own church for help. As regards physicians, regular practitioners in medicine, Mr.

Flynn expressed the greatest respect for them, and advised "sticking" to the family physician. "As long as they advocate good habits of life and work for the suppression of those evils which feed their own purses I shall support them."

"What we want to know is, can a Christian man tell another that he need not have colds, influenza, falling hair, aching head, and this or that? So he can."

At this point, Mr. Flynn told of the necessity of reducing the paunch that many men pride themselves on as a costly acquisition, and with his supple body illustrated a series of exercises for reducing and overcoming the defect, which he said was caused by displacement of the vital organs. "Let us not have any monstrosities in our churches; God wants his men to be the handsomest and most attractive. The body is a sacred place where the spirit dwells and should be a fit abode."

"That old age should be feeble and infirm is a heretical belief," according to Mr. Flynn. "A man who dies of old age before he is a hundred, he said, ought to be hanged. When you are called before your maker you should go with a body so symmetrical and so sound that he can say of you, 'You have made a brave attempt.'"

"Don't carry away the idea that the great thing in bodily development is to have great muscles. Many of you have no use for them. What you want is a healthy, symmetrical body, and how to learn to make it so."

Before closing his address, the speaker had his entire audience, young and old, engage in a series of breathing exercises, and they responded with great alacrity. Following this he made a few pointed remarks on diet, cautioning the strictest moderation in the use of tea and coffee and condiments, such as pepper and salt. Vinegar, he said, had no place in diet, and served no useful purpose. Two meals a day were much better than one, and breakfast the best meal to forego. He advised a smaller consumption of meat, and more of potatoes, rice, and vegetables. Buttermilk, in his opinion, had great nutritive value, and should be drunk frequently and regularly. The lemon, too, was heralded, as possessed of great hygienic value, and he said:

"If you want to do your friends a good turn, hand him a lemon."

Mind, or mental attitude, diet and exercise, are the trilogy and foundation on which good health is to be built. This was the theme which Mr. Flynn discoursed in his address at the Presbyterian church. He gave some striking illustrations of the effect of mental illustration as well as of the results of proper exercise in curing disease. His talk was so charged with optimism and, and his thoughts expressed in such epigrammatic form that they went straight to the mark. From the temper of his audiences yesterday it is safe to predict that his lectures in this city will not want for attendance.

BREAKFAST FOODS.

(By Howard L. Rana.)

A BREAKFAST food is an invigorating substitute for real victuals, and when partaken of in large quantities will deprive the preoccupied eater for several minutes of the day.

The mission of the breakfast food is to provide brains for people who have been overworked in the draw.

Nearly a 11 breakfast foods are guaranteed to build up the human brain and replace all worn parts, without satisfying hunger or injuring the delicate fabric of the appetite.

One pound of breakfast food, taken just before catching the 7:40 car, will put a man in condition to go without anything but a restless feeling in the stomach until 9:45 a. m.

One of the most painful experiences in life, for a man who is accustomed to attack a cold pumpkin pie, four mutton chops and six wheat cakes at break of day, is to visit some vegetarian relative and be led up to a plate of flax seed breakfast food and a cup of Lima bean coffee. This will embitter his entire stay, and also cut it short with great rapidity.

Some people are able to attempt a dish of pre-digested breakfast food at sunrise and not eat a thing until night except popcorn, chocolate nut sundae and plug tobacco. They then return home for dinner and contract dyspepsia, by assaulting everything that is put on the table.

Women are more partial to breakfast foods than men, as with their aid a man can prepare his own breakfast without interfering with his wife's sleep. The breakfast food has proven a priceless boon to many a somnolent wife who objects to getting up before 1:00 p. m.

The average breakfast food consists mainly of flaxseed work stuffed with pure, fresh air, and when followed up persistently will reduce obesity faster than an electric belt.

POOR FAMILIES IN NEED OF CLOTHES

Associated Charities Ask Donations of Clothing, Especially of Clothing for Small Children.

Children's clothing of all kinds, and especially for children under eight years of age is needed by the Associated Charities of Janesville in its work among the poor of the city, and an appeal has been made for such articles of wearing apparel. There are several cases in the city where the families are too poor to buy proper clothing, and the children have been kept out of school for this reason. With cold weather approaching, the call for warm clothing grows, and in order to supply the needs of worthy poor families, the Associated Charities have asked that donations of clothing be left at the city hall.

Heart to Heart Talks

By EDWIN A. NYE.

SUCCESSFUL SUCCESS.

April 28 there died in the city of Chicago one of the very few successful men who have ever lived.

Reference is here made to the late Dr. D. K. Pearsons, the fine souled philanthropist, who died ninety-two years.

Having accumulated a fortune of $7,000,000 by real estate investments, he started when eighty years of age to give it away. He helped endow more than fifty small struggling colleges, because he believed the small college afforded poor young people the best chance. He also gave largely to charity and for fifty years aided young men to get an education.

Dr. Pearsons gave away every dollar of his big fortune, reserving only a small life annuity to keep his soul and body together till death.

He was doubly successful. Many men have known the satisfaction of making much money. Few have known both the joy and pride of the victor in making a fortune and the pride and joy of the philanthropist in giving every bit of it away. He was twice successful.

He lived a completed life. Which is a rare accomplishment. Death, when it comes to most men finds them with unfinished plans, or their plans are successfully worked out, there yet remains the problem of the successful administration of their affairs when they shall be dead. They "heap up riches knowing not who will gather them."

They know the lawyers will gather some! And they fear lest the heirs may dissipate the remainder. Dr. Pearsons was his own executor. He successfully administered his estate while living. And he had the pleasure in the disbursement of his wealth of seeing the good it would do. His money went where he wanted it to go and for the good of mankind.

Successful old man. He went to the limit of benevolence. Other millionaires give away money, but not all of it. Some of them cannot keep up with the natural increase and are in grave danger of "the disgrace of dying rich." Giving all, Dr. Pearsons, of all the rich men of his day, was the one successful giver.

Success is like a pyramid. Broad at the base, broad as the thronging millions who live their little day and win or fall. Towering upward, its form narrows and scattered along its sides are the few who have been fairly successful. At its top their bright figures lit up with the pure sunshine of merited fame—are the very few who have lived a completed and successful life.

Of these, the gentle bearded nonagenarian who died in Chicago was one.

Read the following opinion of a scientist, an authority who has experimented and therefore knows that "light starts decay even in pure beer."

Don't Drink Beer from Light Glass Bottles

"We have tested beers repeatedly, placing the bottles in the direct sunlight, and testing the same after one, two, three and five minutes exposure, found that the beer with three and five minutes exposure became undrinkable on account of the peculiar odor developed. The detrimental effect of light upon beer can be successfully counteracted by the employment of brown or dark colored glass bottles, and such bottles are, therefore, recommendable."

The Chronicles of Addington Peace

By B. FLETCHER ROBINSON

Adapted with A. Conan Doyle of The Hound of the Baskervilles

"Mr. Chairman," he shouted. "I have a question to ask the candidate. There was a slight outcry, a few faces and groans; but the tide of local politics did not run strongly in his direction. Besides, everyone knew Horledge. He had the largest grocery shop in the town. "It would be better to question him after his speech," Mr. Horledge protested the old chairman. "I should prefer to answer this gentleman at once," Coran interposed. He stood with his hands, clasping and unclasping, before him, but never moved his eyes from his opponent. There was grit in the fellow, after all. "It would be simpler if you withdrew," said the red-faced man, shuffling his feet uneasily. "That your party's candidate might be returned unopposed?" "Don't force me to explain," cried Horledge. "Why not withdraw?" "You waste the time of the meeting. "Very well, gentlemen, I say that Mr. Coran there is no fit candidate, because— "There is something unsettling in the official tap on the shoulder which the police of all countries cultivate, something which it does not take previous experience to recognize. Horledge's face turned a shade paler as he glanced over his shoulder at the little man who has thus demanded his attention. "And what do you want?" he growled. "I am Inspector Addington Peace, of the Criminal Investigation department. I warn you, Mr. Horledge, that you are lending yourself to an attempt at blackmail. "The detective spoke in so soft a voice that I, who was standing by his side, could barely catch the words. "Bless my soul, you say so?" cried the other. "I should like a five minutes' talk with Mr. Coran and yourself. After that you may take your own course. Will you suggest it?" Mr. Horledge did not take long to make up his mind. He told the meeting that he might have been misinformed. If they would permit it, he asked for a five minutes' private conversation with the candidate. The meeting received the suggestion with cheers. It was something unusual in the monotony of such functions. We walked up the central aisle between a couple of hundred pairs of curious eyes, mounted the platform, and followed Coran into a small anteroom, the door of which Peace closed behind him. "On June 15 the Brandon Anti-Vivisection society of which you, Mr. Horledge, are president, received the sum of twenty pounds from an anonymous source," said the little detective. "Certainly." "That sum was extorted from Mr. Coran by the threat of revealing the secret which Miss Rebecca Coran told you this morning, and which you verified this afternoon by a reference to the old newspaper files in the British museum. "I had no idea—this is most surprising. I—I am illegal?" he stammered. "Blackmail for whatever purpose is illegal. Further attempts have been made to extort money. It is because they failed that you were placed in possession of the facts today. "It seemed a mean trick, anyway," said Horledge, penitently. "I wish I had never listened to the old cat. But, Squares—let me beg your pardon, Mr. Coran—I mean our friend here has always been such a model that I thought it rather fun. He can win the election, and welcome, after this. "That is all, then. I want a word in private with these two gentlemen. Good night to you, and many thanks. "Great Scott, Inspector, but you gave me a fright. I hope, Mr. Coran, you don't bear malice? That's all right, then. Good night all. "As he disappeared through the door the elder man dropped into a chair, covering his face with his hands. "This is shocking!" he groaned.

THE MYSTERY OF THE JADE SPEAR

"Are you Inspector Peace, Sir?" He looked what he was, a garden-er's boy, and he stood on the platform of Richmond station regarding us with a solemn, if cherubic, countenance. The little inspector nodded his head as he felt in his pocket for the tickets. "I have a cab waiting for you, sir. "Are you from the Elms?" "Yes, sir. Miss Sherrick sent me to meet you, having heard as you were coming. "We walked up the steps to the road-way, climbed into the cab, and, with the boy on the box, dragged our way up the steep of the narrow street, past the Star and Garter (the hostelry of ancient glories), and so for a mile until, at a word from our youthful conductor, the cab drew up at a wicket-gate in a fence of split oak. As we stepped out a girl swung open the gate and stood confronting us. She was a tall and graceful creature, with the delicacy of the blonde coloring a beautiful face. There was fear in her blue eyes, a fear that widened and fixed them; and a tremor of the full red lips that told of a great calamity. "Inspector Addington Peace?" "Yes, Miss Sherrick. "There was that about the little inspector which ever invited the trust of the innocent, and also, to be frank, no inconsiderable proportion of the guilty to their special disadvantage. I have noticed a similar confidence inspired by certain of the more famous doctors. "So I was not surprised when Miss Sherrick walked up to him, and laid her hand on his arm, with a confident appeal in her eyes. "Do you know they have arrested him?" she said. "I had not heard. What is his name?" "Mr. Boyne. "The man who found the body. "Yes. The man I intend to marry. "I liked that sentence. It was stronger than any protestations of his innocence that she could have made. Peace marked it, too, for he smiled, watching her with his head to one side in his solemn fashion. "You cannot think he is guilty," she said quietly. "You are too clever for that, Inspector Peace. "My dear young lady, at two o'clock I heard that a Colonel Bulstrode, of the Elms, Richmond, had been stabbed to death in a road near his house. That was the single fact telegraphed to Scotland Yard. Taking my friend here, I caught the 2:35 from Waterloo station. It is now half-past three. As you will observe, my work has not yet commenced. "I sent the boy to meet you. I wished you to hear my story before you saw—the police up at the house. I should like to tell you all I know. "That will, doubtless, be very valuable," said the little inspector. "Can you find us a place where we shall not be disturbed?" For answer she led the way through the wicket-gate. A couple of turns and the winding walk brought us to an open space in the laurels and rhododendrons. On the further side was a garden bench, and there we seated ourselves, waiting, with great anxiety on my part at least, for further details of the tragedy. "My father was a widower," said Miss Sherrick, "and when he died he left as my guardians and trustees my mother's two brothers, Colonel Bulstrode and Mr. Anstruther Bulstrode. Colonel Bulstrode, who had been in the Indian Staff Corps, had retired the year before my father's death, and taken this house. It was with him that I went to live. Richmond suited him, for he could spend the day at his London club and yet be home in plenty of time for dinner. "My uncle Anstruther was also an Anglo-Indian. He had been for many years a planter in Ceylon. It was on the Colonel's advice that he took a house near us when he came home this spring. "I first met Mr. Boyne last Christmas, when we were skating on some flooded meadows by the Thames. He is a lawyer, and though he is doing well, is by no means a rich man. Unfortunately, I am an heiress, Inspector Peace. "I understand, Miss Sherrick. "Colonel Bulstrode expected me to make what he called a first-rate marriage. Mr. Boyne and I had been engaged for two weeks, and at last we decided to tell the Colonel. We knew there would be trouble, but there was nothing to be gained by continued postponement. Mr. Boyne made an appointment with him for one o'clock today. "The morning seemed as if it were never to end. As the hour approached I could wait in my room no longer. I slipped out of a side door into the upper garden, which lies at the further side of the house. I wandered about for some time in great misery. When I heard the stable clock chime the half-hour, I started back to the house. It must have been decided between them one way or the other. "I had reached the drive and was walking up to the front door when I saw Cullen, the butler, come running out of the wilderness—as we call the shrubberies where we now are—and so across the lawn towards me. He was in an excited state, waving his arms and shouting. Cullen is so stout and respectable that I could only conclude that he had gone mad. When he was some twenty yards off, he caught sight of me, and slunk away towards the front door as if trying to avoid me. "What is the matter, Cullen?" I called to him. "He slackened his pace, and finally stopped, with his eyes staring at me in an odd fashion. "You come in with me, miss, he stammered. It's no mischief of your making. Eh, eh, but it's ugly work—black and ugly work. "What do you mean, Cullen?" I said as boldly as I could, for his manner frightened me. "The Colonel has come by an accident, miss, down by the wicket-gate. I was going for a doctor. "I did not wait to hear more. I was very fond of my guardian, Mr. Peace. He had a hot temper, but to me he had ever been kind and considerate. As I started, however, Cullen came panting up and tried to turn me back, waving his hands. Lunatic or not, I did not mean to let him frighten me. So I avoided him, and set off running across the grass to the wilderness gate—the one through which we have just come. I had almost reached it when I met Mr. Boyne. I was surprised, for I thought he had already gone home. Beyond him I could see the gate, with two of our gardeners standing on the further side and talking earnestly together. "I asked Mr. Boyne what was the matter, and for answer he took me by the arm and led me back towards the house. He looked very white and ill. I still begged for an explanation, and at last he told me the truth. My Uncle, Colonel Bulstrode, had been found lying in the road stabbed to death with a spear. They had no idea who the murderer might be. "They brought up the body to the house. Afterwards they let me see him. Even in death his face was convulsed with passion. Oh, it is dreadful, dreadful! "Her reserve gave way all in a moment, and she burst into a fit of sobbing, hiding her face in her hands. It was some time before she regained her self-control, and when she spoke again it was with difficulty and in detached sentences. (To be Continued.)

For Cold in the Head. Snuffing a piece of sugar up the nose has often been known to bring relief when suffering from a cold in the head. Repeat the process several times a day, or as often as you find difficulty in breathing freely through the nostrils. "Every Little Olive Tablet Has a Movement All Its Own." Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver. Dr. Edwards, a well known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil, to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years. Olive tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They bring about that exuberance of spirit, that natural buoyancy which should be enjoyed by everyone, by toning up the liver and clearing the system of harmful impurities. 10c and 25c per box. Mystery of Love. If a man should importune me to give a reason why I loved him I find it could not otherwise be expressed than by making answer, because it was he; because it was I. ## FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, Oct. 14, 1872.—Since the infamous "fizzle" in this city on Saturday, there has been quiet surrender of the once rampant faction which held high carnival up the streets corners during the first month of Greeley's candidacy. The few remaining liberals are attending to business having lost all taste for political matters. This is not to be wondered at as most of the liberals left their party ranks and joined the disaffectionists from a desire to secure official plunder and as there is no more hope for Greeley they cannot be expected to take any further interest in the campaign.

The number of money orders issued from the local postoffice during the first twelve days of October were 146; amount $2,502.79. Number paid 116; amount $2112.09. Twelve British money orders were paid $16.46. The first order in Germany was issued on the 6th inst. the money value of the order being one dollar. During the three months ending September 30th, 425 dead letters have been sent to the dead letter office, making an average of about thirty-three letters a week.

The board of registry will hold its session during tomorrow at the following places: First ward, Washington engine house; second ward, Water Wich engine house; third ward, Edward Hatch's shop; fourth ward, Collins office; fifth ward, C. E. N. W. freight office. The board will hold another session the Tuesday preceding the general election.

We trust that the people will keep in mind the fact that Hon. C. G. Williams delivers an address of a political nature at Lappin's hall tomorrow evening. Mr. Williams has carefully prepared his address for this occasion and will without doubt give his hearers an interesting discourse. Let us celebrate our recent victories in the east by a general rally tomorrow evening. The glee club will be out.

Those born today will have strong, energetic personalities, and by their courage and power will succeed in life. If untrained in youth, these admirable qualities will sink to stupid obstinacy and hasty uncontrolled temper.

In the garden of dreams let me rest, far from the laboring throng, from the means of the tired and distressed, from the strains of the conqueror's song. As a native of Bagdad, or Turk, I'd live in Arabian nights, away from the regions of work, from troubles and hollow delights. In the garden of dreams, I would stray, and bether my fat head no more, wondering how I shall pay for groceries bought at the store. Ah, there in that garden I'd sit, communing peace with my

"O F DREAMS" again have a fit when the garden of dreams I'd recede and soar on the wings of romance, forgetting this old hat of mine, the patches all over my pants, the clamor of children for shoes, the haughty demands for a gown, the lodge's exorbitant dues, the politax to work in the town. Alas! It is as I supposed—there is no escaping my fate, for the garden of dreams has been closed, a padlock is fixed on the gate. The young, who are buoyant and glad, may enter that garden, it seems; but the old, who are weary, are warned from the garden of dreams!

A sympathetic old gentleman inquired if he were ill, and receiving a negative reply, said: "Then why are you moving backwards and forwards like that?"

The small boy made no pause in his regular oscillations as he said: "Well, you see, mister, I've just bought a watch from Tucker for one-and-sixpence, and if I stop moving, like this here the watch won't go any more."

MISCELLANEOUS

THE SUREST WAY TO LOSE money in the purchase of a piano is to judge the instrument by the price that is marked on it. It is a too common practice to mark pianos from $100 to $300 higher than they should sell. The Schiller piano is so well known that quality and price are never questioned. A. V. Lyle. 10-14-1t.

HARDWARE

If it is good hardware McNamara has it.

Mingling of Past and Present.
An immigrant hotel, in a narrow street between Church and Greenwich streets, New York, has a veranda in front, where immigrants sit in the evening, smoke German pipes, wear wooden shoes and drink beer. In the basement are a bank, a billiard table and an intelligence office. Open all night.

Queer Counting of Distances.
In the rural parts of Schleswig-Holstein, people do not measure distance by miles, as we do, or by hours, as in other parts of Germany. They say that a place is a pipe, or two pipes, or three pipes off, according to the number of pipes one could smoke while walking there. Shorter distances are reckoned by dogs' barks; a village under a mile away would be two or three dogs' barks.

Keep to Old Custom.
At the 600-year-old Audlem church, in Cheshire, England, the curfew is regularly rung after which the date of the month is tolled, a survival of the times when no almanacs existed.

PUBLIC NOTICE
Persons Answering Fraudulent Advertisements Asked to Notify Gazette.
The Gazette is desirous of keeping out of its columns fraudulent advertising and asks the assistance of its patrons to that end.
There are any number of concerns in the country who make a living through a nicely worded advertisement, offering golden opportunities, and these unscrupulous people find fertile ground for work among the masses.
Many orders are received in the Gazette mail for advertising which are returned as objectionable and where there is a question as to the qualifications the advertisement is omitted. All newspapers have this experience.
But even with the utmost care there will be an occasional advertisement which will pass the scrutiny of the business department of the paper and find its way into the columns.
The Gazette will deem it a favor if you will report to the office any trouble which may have been experienced through the answering of such an advertisement.

MUSIC.
We love music for the buried hopes, the garnered memories, the tender feelings it can summon at a touch.—Lettitia Elizabeth Landon.
